SPEECH

Hon. J. J. CRITTENDEN.

OF KENTNCKY, In the United States Senate, April 27th, on the Report of the Conference Committee

Mr. Allen .- What is the question now? The President pro tempore. Ou concurring in the report of the committee of Conference. Those Senators in favor of concurring will say "yea," as their names are called; those opposed to it

Mr. Crittenden. Mr. President, I wish, with as little consumption of the time of the Senate as possible, to set forth the reasons which, upon the fullest consideration that I have had the op-portunity of giving to this subject, constrain me to vote against this report. In some respects, undoubtedly, the amendment proposed by the committee of Conference meets my cordial concurrence. I was opposed to the admission of Kansas upon the basis of the Lecompton Constitution, because I thought that instrument not only did not express the will of the people of Kansas, but was against their known will and wishes; and moreover I thought it had been made by fraud and political trickery. I opposed, therefore, the enforcement of that constitution upon the people of Kansas. That was the main point of contro-versy then. Gentlemen on the other side regarded it as being presented in all the forms of law, and said that those forms of law through which this question had passed in the Territory of Kansas, precluded us from any examination beyond them. I supposed that forms were only intended to promote and ascertain the truth-not that they confined and crushed the truth and precluded all examination into it.

I was opposed to enforcing this instrument upon the people against their will, and stained, as I supposed, with fraud. Other gentlemen took different views of the case, and insisted upon its prompt and immediate adoption and the absolute admission of the State into the Union upon it. The committee of Conference, in their consideration of the subject, have changed the views which were entertained by the Senate at that time, and have now agreed to abandon the Lecompton Constitution, so far at least as to sub-mit it to the people of Kansas now for their aftirnation. So far we are agreed.

But, sir, in making that submission to the peo-, certain consequences are attached to it, which, I think, are an unjust, an improper incumbrance upon the free right of the people to choose their institutions for themselves. In the bill substituted by the House of Representatives in place of the Senate's bill, there was a fair submi ssion of the Lecompton Constitution provided for, and the people were told, "if you affirm this, very well; it is all at your discretion; a matter of choice with you, free, uninfluenced, fair; choose as you please; and if you choose to reject this constitution as not satisfactory to you, a convention of the people of the Territory shall be im-mediately ealled, to make such constitution as is satisfactory; and upon that constitution's being made, and upon a reference of it to the people, if they shall affirm what the convention has done, the President of the United States being made acquainted with the fact, shall announce by pro-clamation, and thereafter the State shall be cou-

That is the hill which the Senate has voted gainst. The committee of Conference, aban doning, as I say, the enforcement of the Lecomp ton Constitution as an absolute one, and the admission of the State as an absolute admission, come to our ground, so far as to agree that that instrument shall be submitted to the people. The com-mittee of Conference say it shall be submitted to the people, but how submitted? In the fair, mbered manner that it was to be by the bill of the House of Representatives? No,

I have said that this new amendment proposes the submission of the constitution. I am substantially correct in that statement. Literally, however, it is but a submission of certain grants of land which have been habitually made by Congress upon the formation and admission of new States—grants for school purpose, grants for a university, grants for establishing a scat of Goverment. It submits these grants and the condition upon which they are made, to-wit: that the State accepting them shall not be at liberty to interfere with the disposal of the public lands or to impose taxes upon them-it refers this formal part of the instrument of admission to the people. It submits to them the question. Are you willing to take these grants of lands or not? That is the only question to be submitted to the peo-ple; but by legislation a consequence is to flow from their action perfectly arbitrary in its nature, and altogether illogical in the conclusion. If willing to take the land, it is to be inferred that they are willing to take a constitution which is known to be obnoxious to them? And if they reject the grants of land for any reason, or without any reason, they are to be considered as rejecting the constitution. Here is a side issue, or a collateral constitution, infinitely more important than the direct question propound ed to the

Now, sir, why is this? It is in effect, I grant, for I do not wish to stand on mere form alities or technicalities, a submission of the constitution to the people. It is a sort of feigned issue out of Congress. That issue the people are to try. The world, looking at that issue, might say: "Well, what of this; what do you say about the constitution, there is nothing here about it?" Oh, well, but we will annex, by law, a legal consequence, though no man would ever think of deriving it as a legitimate and logical consequence, and that consequence shall be, if you take the land, you take another thing entirely distinct from it-a certain constitution. You agree; to waive all your objections to what you regard as its obnoxious character or obuoxious parts, if you take the land. If you do not want the land, or if you reject it because it is not as much as you desire or as much as you hoped for, then you shall be considered as rejecting the constitution, though you may, in fact, be satisfied with it. Is this a fair submission of it to the people? You say to them, in effect, vote for this obnoxious constitution; agree to put this little yoke on your necks; and you shall be rewarded for it with lands without limit al and that having once rejected in due form of law, this form of law shall be set up against them as an estoppel—I think the word we have heard so that is the legislation of Congress, if this report the North, with its peculiar employments and its often is estoppel—against their ever having any more land? Will the world consider it fair? Will I do not w If the people of Kansas are entitled to vote upon the Lecompton Constitution, they are entitled to be in perfect consonance with the prejudices Great West, it in virtue of their right of self-government; they and suspicions which have been excited in are entitled to it in virtue of that great sovereign popular right, by virtue of which every government that we represent here stands. We have no right to diminish, no right to control, no right to ment that we represent here stands. We have no right to diminish, no right to control, no right to annex penalties or conditions to the excrete of it. Although I have no idea that it is the intention of Congress to withhold from them, and two individuals of the President's aptile intention of Congress to withhold from them, and two individuals of the President of the famous French writer, De Tocqueville, octive to them for immediate admission. This is calculated to take away from it the face of justice.

At any rate, this is a great bonus offered to them for immediate admission. This is calculated to take away from the submission the the complexion of fairness and equality; it is calculated to take away from it the face of justice.

So it will say to all the aspirants in the Territory, seems to me; and, in my opinion, those who consider it candidly will come to the same conclusions that honored place, you who want to be ject entirely settled, and this Kansas volcano extinguished, closed up, filled up forever, I would rather that these measures would all fail, and Kansas be left just where you found her, than where this bill would place her. To do nothing would place her where this bill would; but it would place her there without this injurious and unjust legislation on our part. This bill, if she refused her there without this injurious and unjust legislation on our part. This bill, if she refused her there without this injurious and unjust legislation on our part. This bill, if she refused her there without this injurious and unjust legislation on our part. This bill, if she refused her there without this injurious and unjust legislation on our part. Territory if this hill passes, and she rejects the constitution. Then what have we gained by it? Nothing; not a straw; not the dust in the balance in which the peace of the country is weigh-

Another and further distinction between the House bill and this bill is, that the House bill provided, in case of the rejection of the Lenpton Constitution, an immediate remedy for that, by calling another convention, which ntion, hefore the next session of Congress, the bill supposed, would have formed a consti tution, which would have been acted upon, and we should come here finding Kansas a State in the Union - at any rate, the question put out of our hands; for if they rejected this, we provided he means of their making another. This bill says, if they reject this, there is no means of their making another, and they shall be rown people, and confine it to them. We not have another; it shall be postponed indefinite have pursued that policy; we have proceeded by; and we here authorize them, when they have upon that concession upon every side, and by ought to govern our actions. We should considure them they have upon that concession upon every side, and by ought to govern our actions. y; and we here authorize them, when they have upon that concession upon every side, and by till then, to make a constitution, thus leaving this out up to this moment; and now, for the first particular interest, having a deeper stake than vexed and vexations question open, to pour out time, after these long concessions, disfrauchise others in the preservation of the Union, and further troubles on the land.

It abandons, then—and that is all it does in concurrence with my ideas of the proper course if the people do not accept a constitution that we that equal justice be done to both and to all.

This is the position which I feel for myself on this subject—the Lecompton Constitution, by agreeing to submit it to the people. It does no more than the House bill did on that point. In all the rest it is a poor, maimed imitation of the bill of the House, worse, for every change that has been made, and by these very changes creating insuperable obstacles to prevent those who view it as I do from giving their concurrence to the report of this committee. I recipies sure, upshakable, imperishable, foundation, and rence to the report of this committee. I rejoice at it so far as they go to abandon the Lecomp ton Constitution; but, sir, how strangely are relations between States and nations be calcula our local and material interests. That will keep the views changed upon this subject, which will ted on as permanently settled. Nothing else us awake constantly. We can have no preju

This was the argument here.— up a good feeling for the moment is not sufficient. It may be a remedy partially, for a day pose? They abandon the President; they abandon all his reasons; they abaudon his recommendation; his authority is set at naught; and what do they do? After having given the President much reason to believe that, to this extent at least, (that is, of shortening the method of settling the Kansas question.) they concurred adopt the shortest and the quickest way for the admission of Kansas, to quell all these disturbances, and to quiet the land, by admitting her into the Union; that is not their purpose at all; now they say to her, if she does not take this thing she shall not come into the Union; she shall wait-how long I do not know; the President does not know.

All the eelerity of movement to a particular goal is laid aside; and now if the President eoncurs init, as if it were in resentment on his which have guided me to the so part, which I would not attribute to him—but question at which I have arrived. resentment itself could not have dictated a course more calculated to avenge the wrong of refusing the Lecompton Constitution absolutely, than the one which is now proposed, that unless they take it they shall not come into the Union able enough; but sir, take my case. What is the for an indefinite time-by the adoption of this position of my State? Beautiful Consistency.

ministration Democrats against Mr. Crittenden's substitute for the Green Kansas bill was, that Nuttall was as follows: the clause declaring that, if the people of Kansas should accept the Lecompton Constitution, the President should admit Kansas into the Union by his proclamation, was unconstitutional. They argued, with but slight show of reason, that this clause bestowed upon the President the power of admitting new States, and therefore it was contrary to the Constitution, which instrument says that the Congress may admit new States. It was ed by Congress, the President would certainly veto it on account of the unconstitutionality of the clause referred to, and the grinders were unsparing in their denunciation of those who, as they contended, sought, not only to violate the Constitution, but also to place in the hands of the Executive a dangerous power. We have not from the beginning had the slightest doubt as to the entire legality of Mr. Crittenden's substitute, nor did we regard it as giving to the President the power of admitting new States, by accepting the substitute, Congress would have admitted the State with a Constitution acceptable to the people to be governed by it But we do not propose now to discuss the constitutionality of this clause, but merely desire to point out to our readers the readiness with which Democratic organs can turn sommersaults whenever their masters at Washington request it.

"That the State of Kansas be, and is hereby inasmuch as it is greatly disputed whether the Constitution with which Kansas is now admitted was fairly made, or expresses the will of the people of Kausas, this admission of her into the complete and absolute.'

The President's mouth piece, Senator Bigler, contended strongly against this clause, in fact it was the main objection he made to the substitute. Our cotemporary of the Lexington States. man also gave up nearly a column of his valuable space to unequivocal condemnation of the man. ner of admitting the State, alleging that it was unconstitutional and asserting that the President prohably would and certainly ought to veto the bill, if it were passed by Congress, on that ground. The Stutesman, moreover, could hardly find terms sufficiently strong to express its contempt for the person who originated the measure; it didn't think Mr. Crittenden was much of a constitutional lawyer to make such a proposition. We didn't give our cotemporary credit for a vast amount of sineerity in his opposition to this feature of the substitute, but believed he was laboring hard to find some graver objection to it than that it permitted the people of Kansas to say what Constitution they wished to live under. It looked badly for a Cincinnati Platform Democrat to object to a people having the opportunity of giving their fairly expressed will concerning their organic law, and our cotemporary preferred to place his objection to the substitute upon some other ground. Being rather restless upon the question of popular sovereignty, he eagerly caught at the idea thrown out by Senator Bigler, and interposed a constitutional objection to the best way to ascertain the extent of our cotemporary's sincerity, will be to read the following extract from the English bill, which he approves and endorses. your country upon a most heinous charge. You have put yourself upon your country and your God for deliverance. You have had a fair and impartial trial before them, and they have both pronounced you not guilty, and so say I. It may not be proper for me to express my sentiments, yet, nevertheless, I will do it. Young man! yet, nevertheless, I will do it. Young man! had I heen wronged as you have been, I would have spent every dollar I had on earth, and all given out by the organs of the administration that I could have begged and horrowed, and then that, if the Crittendeu substitute should be adopt. would have imbrued my hands in his blood. Go hence without day. You are acquitted!!

If Gruhb did seduce the sister of Hardesty, he committed as black a crime as there is upon the catalogue of outrages and villainies, and he deserved the severest penalties of the law. We have no sympathy with the erime, and no commiseration whatever for the fate of the deceased. But while this is the case, Hardesty had no legal right to take the life of Grubh because of the offense alleged to have been committed by him. No private citizen has a legal right to take the law into his own hands, and that judicial officer, who, for any cause, advises or approves, in his official capacity, the commission of crime and murder, when there is no legal justification there for, disgraces his high position, and should be impeached and removed from office. It is the solemnly sworn duty of a Judge to expound and execute the law as it is written, and not as he would wish it to he. The remarks which Judge Nuttall is reported to have made on the conclusion of the above mentioned case, afford one admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatever; but of the rapid increase of radicalism in all departments of the body politic, and the manifest tendency, all over our land, to corruption in our judiciary. Whenever men are taught to believe Union as a State is here declared to be upon this that might is right, that they may under certain atal condition precedent, namely: that circumstances ignore and over-ride the law, and the said constitutional instrument shall be first submitted to a vote of the people of Kansas and go "unwhipped of justice," we may hid farewell assented to by them or a majority of the voters at an election to be held for the voters at an election to be a left and the voters at an election to be a left and the voters at an election to be a left and the voters at a left an an election to be held for the purpose, and as soon as such assent shall be given and duly made the rights of property." What henefit will reknown to the President of the United States, he shall announce the same by proclamation, and thereafter and without any further proceedings on as they are written? If such remarks as those of Judge Nuttall are to be tolerated from the Bench, if judges are to be allowed to declare when the laws are and heart-cheering reflection, that their loss is his SUMMER GOODS, comprising all of the when they are not sufficient, and to advise the eternal gain, as he fell at his post, on his bended "LATEST STYLES," at lowest rates for CASH. people to decide the matter for themselves, if those who were near and dear to him, and for examination. not what they are, then the judges and the juries between them will make the laws, and there will Father in this his hour of trial. In this sinking no longer he any necessity of Legislatures for and suppliant posture he was raised on the hed the enacting of statutes for the suppression of by his son, and in a few moments his immortal crime and the protection of property. If Judge spirittook its flight to its long sought home in Nnttall's views are to he recognized as authoritative upon the subject in question, the next General Assembly of Kentucky had hetter pass a law making every man his own avenger, and declaring that it shall be legal for a man to shoot henceforth: yea, saith the spirit, that they may upon sight any one who may have invaded his rest from their labors, and their works do follow domestic sanctity by seducing his wife, daughter | them." or sister. ITI understand that English, who was the principal agent in procuring the bill for Green, went to Mr. Broderick's seat and requested him to withdraw the words he had spoken about the D. S. Benedict, Isaac Everett, And'w Buchanan, passage of Mr. Crittenden's substitute. But the House, when the latter turned upon him with an H. A. Griswold, and Marshall Key, (U. E. To the former, on all suitable oceasions, he ministered to their spiritual wants in a becoming and suitable manner by word, admonition, and prayer; and none hut those who have been frequently with him, at the bcd-side of the afflicted, can properly appreciate the power and influence this man of God exerted, not only over the penitent, but also the ungodly. The Beautiful Canadian Trotting Stallion

DEFIANCE

WILL MAKE HIS FIRST SEASON IN THE United States, at my farm in Franklin county, eight miles from Frankfort, on the utrnpike road leading to Georgetown, at the very low price of TEN DOLLARS the season, with fifty cents to the groom, payable within the season which has commenced, and will expire on the 1st of July.

I will furnish pasturage gratis to mares from a distance, without being responsible for accidents or escapes.

DESCRIPTION AND PEDIGREE. DESCRIPTION AND PEDIGREE.

DEFIANCE is a rich mahogony bay: 15½ hands high; with heavy black mane and tall; possessing fine bone; great length, and oxtraordinary gayety; and presenting in his appearance, a remarkable combination of the thorough bred with the harness horse.

He was sired by old Defiance, who was the sire of Lady Moscow, and Innumerated other trotting celebrities. His dam, (Matilda Minks,) herself very celebrated both for trotting and pacing, was a Canndian mare of the most select breed. Old Defiance was by Cock of the Rock; he by Duroc; he by old Messenger. Cock of the Rock was full brother in blood to American Eclipse.

of the Rock was full brother in blood to American Eclipse.

DEFIANCE was purchased from his breeder in Carada last fall as a stock borse, both on account of his great perfection of form, color, gayety, natural speed, and graceful action, and for the high character and reputation of the stock from which he is both directly and remotely descended. He was exhibited in the fast ring at the Baltimore Fair, six weeks after his arrival, and, without any training, went his mile in a unhutes 40 seconds, taking the second premium.

I am standing him at this low rate on secount of the hard times, with the purpose of Inducing farmers generally to improve the character of the horse stock of the coventry, being well assured that no horse in the State will contribute more to that end.

TOWN LOTS FOR SALE. A the town of MELBOURNE, Karnes county, Texas being a new town site, recently laid off, on the Government road leading from Indianola to San Antonio via Yoktown; where said road crosses the main Cleto, 22 miles from Yorktown and 45 miles from San Antonio, and where the Gonzales and Seguin roads intersect and cross to Ilelena; also near where the San Antonio and Mexican Gulf Railroad, now being constructed, passes— It is one of the most desirable locations for an inland town, in Western Texas. The soil adjacent is good, was revealent. Lots on main street, 75 feet front, 150 feet back, are now offered at FIFTY DOLLARS per lot; back lots, same size, at TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS per lot.

It's se who wish to commence business ha new town, orte double ortreble their money, would do well by purchasing early, before the price of lots is raised. We will also sell the Tavern, known as the Gillock House, increasing the whole block upon which it stands.

Emigrants will find this to be as healthy and fertile a ton of country as there is in almost any of the States.

For further particulars call on us at our residence in MELBOURNE, or address us by letter, "Eclecto Post Office, Karnes country, Texas."

OF THE "GENTRAL KENTUCKIAN."

Lebanon, since the completion of the Railroad, connecting it with Louisville, is a point of interest to a large section of country. There are hundreds of persons abroad who are in want of information upon various abroad who are in want of information upon various topics connected with it, such as the prices current, facilities fordoing and having business done here, &c., and the citizens of Lebanon themselves, wish to inform the public all arge, that it is one of the most enterprising and flourishing towns in the interior of the State, and that it offers great inducements as a place of residence to men of almost every honorable trade and profession. To supply these wants, of people abroad and critzens at home, we have determined to publish "The Central Kentuckian"—a paper devoted to the Commercial, Agricultural, Literary, and Moral welfare of the community in which it is circulated.

It is hoped that we shall be able, by attention to the interest of all concerned, to supply a desideratum long feit.

GLASGOW, Kv., December 23, 1557.

Dear Sir:—Having disposed of our Printing Office in Elizabethtown, Ky., and removed to Glasgow with the view of permanentily localing we purpose commencing the publication of a newspaper sometime during the month of February, to be entitled "THE GLASGOW FREE PRESS." It will be devoted to General Interation, and advancement of the local and general interests of the town and county, and those ndjacent. No pains or exertion on our part will be internitived to secure due consideration for all local enterprises, that may be calculated to advance the general weal of the community.

An earnost effort will be made to render it a valuable family newspaper, acceptable to all parties, combining a variety of utteresting and instructive subjects in its columns. Having had considerable experience in the business, and being practically familiar with its mechanical duttes, we indulge the hope that we shall be enabled to subserve to some extent, the interests to which the "Fexz Pamss" will be dedicated.

American Politics at the present time, may be said very justly, to be in a chrysain state. We do not design, in this Prospectual, to enterthe domain of speculation. It is not necessary to the present purpose, or to define our political postion. This may be defined very briefly. We are conscientiously opposed to the practices and the precepts of Modern Benocracy. We regard the Democratic party, as now constituted, essentially an alien party; and consider its aims and purposes, as avowed by its organs, practiced by its leaders, and developed in the precent administration, pregnans with evil to the Union, in violation of the plain it junctions of the carry ly conservative, and peculiarly adapted to present exigencies. We bellevo that in the fundamental principal countries and proper respect for the opinions of our views of public men and proper respect for the opinions of others, whose conventions and proper respect for the opinions of others, whose conventions and proper respect for the opinions
